RE: EBR Registry Number: RA06E0024 Proposal Title: Ban on the Incineration of Tires

The above proposed ban on the incineration of tires does not apply to any facility with a current certificate of approval - specifically Lafarge Canada, Bath Plant. The MOE admits that it has no experience in monitoring the environmental performance of such facilities, yet it wants to subject Loyalist Township, Kingston and surrounding areas to a "test study" to confirm this process. There is a pro-active alternative.

I request that this proposal be rejected as currently worded. I further request that the MOE propose an amended resolution requesting a province wide ban on the incineration of tires until such a time as an environmental assessment is completed. This amended proposal would also apply to ALL facilities with approval to incinerate tires, specifically Lafarge Canada, Bath plant - thereby ensuring the safety of all citizens within Ontario and their environment.

The MOE admits that they cannot confirm that this process will not harm the environment, without that certainty, it is your responsibility to ban this procedure outright on a precautionary basis.

Study this process from the available science, not from the experimentation on local residents; collect your information confirming the safety of this process BEFORE you begin. To do otherwise is reckless and displays a complete disregard for the people of the affected area and their environment.
